Collector Cook yesterday finished the sale of taxes on property in arrears for the regular tax levy ending June 30, 1877. To-morrow he will begin to sell that property delinquent on account of the water tax. He will probably finish that in two days. His books show a very gratifying return as to the payment of the personal tax, there having been paid in, on account of that assessment, upwards of $165,000. As a general thing the citizens have compiled with the notices served upon them by coming in and promptly settling. Those that have either ignored the notice or declined to respond he proposes to attend to immediately after the conclusion of the sale on account of arrears in the water tax. He proposes to distrain the delinquents in the cases of personal tax and make a test as to the strength and soundness of the law.

FIG. 14 TAKES ANOTHER CUT AT AN ACTOR SPIEL IN AN ATTER THE ATHE TO INDORSE A PLAY ATTHE THEATHE COMIQUE.

The Mrs. R. B. Hayes Temperance Society met last night. The committee to whom was referred the address of the spokesman of the Schutsten Vernin at a recent large beer drinking in the outside the ciry, in which the cause of temperance was attacked. Christianity ridicated, the good name of the daughters of Christian parents villiest, the friends and advecates of temperance denounced, and the acts and aims of their own hibbilious organization extolled, reported the following:

Resolved, That this society refrains from any further notice of said hibbilious organization or its spoke-man as unworthy of attention, leaving a just and discriminating public to judge as to which is right.

Resolved. That the decistation made by the and decriminating public to judge as to wood a-right.

Araderid. That the declaration made by the spokesman of the terms of this birstel on that caselson, that said schuctzen organization propose hereafter to publish the names of all respectable gentlemen (as called) who may faunt through the shady masse of the park, arm in sun-with faller women, meets our unqualited approval, and we suggest to the self-assumed spokesman for the termany of this District that in carrying such purpose threeffer fallers sister, other flant Chris-ifant, be included among the interdicted, of that there may be no abslinction made on account of rac-or previous condition of secvitude.

The report was unanimously adopted.
A resolution was offered by one of the male members tendering the thanks of the society to Mr. John P. Rodgers, proprietor of the Theatre Comique, for placing on his stage last work the drama entitled "From the Altar to the Scadfold," which was in every respect a failuful picture of the effects of intemperance, and a play that should discourage those who witnessed its performance from the use of intoxicating liquors.

Mr. Mctarthy strongly urged the adoption of the resolution on the ground that the society

Mr. Mctarthy strongly urged the adoption of the resolution on the ground that the society was created to commend the right and dr-nounce the wrong, and that they would go to the Schuetzen-fest, or the Theatre Comique, or anywhere else in the cause of temperance. Despite the arguments of two of the members in favor of adopting the resolution, it was re-jected by a large majority.

HOUR.

A clear intelligence of the actual situation of the country, joined to a prudent and profound estimate of the importance of the question presented to the reflective mind by recent deplorable events, caused your valuable journal in its able remarks of the 18th to say:

deplorable events, caused your valuable journal in its able remarks of the 18th to say:

Both the old parties are practically dead. In view of the momentous questions which the nation is now continued to the property of the momentous questions which the nation is now continued that the same which tacky divided the people into two great political parties have been settled, provided it induces our statesmen to lay aside all partisanship in considering the new subjects, in creard to which they are now called upon to express themselves and it stake action. The situation is peritous from the reason that the temptation for pithic men to become demangages in our very great.

These words are full of wisdom and set forth pithinly the character of the problem which statesmen must solve. We are told by excellent authority that three millions of men now sit down, as if spoil bound, in a stake of involuntary dideness, who would gladly work if work they could get it to do. We know, too, that bankruptcy, pauperism and crime have increased to a perilous extent. In Massachusetts, that wealthy, intelligent and industrious State, the records are kept in such a manner as to show the growth of pauperism, and it spots that the such and industrious setts, that wealthy, intelligent and industrious for $755,159, in 1906, the number steadily advanced until in 1876 it reached 222,073 persons, coating for relief $1,321,110. What it costs to maintain the three millions unemployed, for the cost of their support lale somewhere, no mode in at hand to determine. Any one may see it must be very great. If employed at only one dollar a day they would where, no mode is at hand to determine Any one may see it must be very great. I employed at only one dollar a day they would be worth to society eighteen million dollars week, or nine hundred and thirty-six million dollars a year, and thus the evil rises to colos asl proportions, portending great suffering, it may be great danger, before we shall have done with the matter.

It is a social question, this problem you present, which the political methods hitherto is year was inadequate to come with. The half

An Explanation.

The general stagnation of business makes it impossible for me to dispose of my stock and fixtures without incurring a loss that would properly be termed ruinous. I have therefore concluded to decline the ofter of Messes, Saka & Co, and determine to continue business at my present location. I assure my friends and the public that I am deeply sensible of their favor bestowed on me in the past, and trust my desire to serve them in future may meet with the same generous response.
